***Calendars will be sent home every day. Please initial the current day and send it back in the orange folder.

*Students will begin each day with a clean slate and on the “Ready to Learn” section of the clip chart.

*First incident of misbehavior will result in a verbal warning.

*Second incident of misbehavior will result in “Think about it” move down on the clip chart.

*Third incident of misbehavior will result in a move to “Loss of Privilege” which is a calendar mark and student will lose 5 minutes of recess.

*Further misbehavior will result in possibly another calendar mark, more missed recess, a communication report, or student being sent to the office depending on the situation.

*Incidents of misbehavior will be recorded on a calendar which is sent home daily.

*At my discretion students may be sent directly to the office without all of the above steps being followed.

*Students can also work their way up on the clip chart throughout the day onto “Making Good Choices” and “Outstanding” with an end of the week incentive for good behavior in the classroom.

Homework:

All homework must be returned the next day. If homework is not returned, the following will occur:

- 1st—Grace given
- 2nd—Grace given
- 3rd—Communication Report
- 4th—Detention

Homebound students:

Homebound students will be expected to follow the classroom rules as well. The students should have a quiet workspace at home. The student will be respectful of the students that are also virtual and the students in the class. They will be expected to stay on mute, unless told otherwise, to focus on the current lesson and work, and they will raise their hand in order to ask or answer a question. I will also give time at the end of lessons for homebound students to ask questions that they may have. If there is a problem online, I will be sending an e-mail to the parent/guardian that is at home with the student in order to address and resolve the issue.
